Francis Bill Starts Ball Rolling For Daly City Judge

Draft of a bill which will give the Daly City area a new judge was released this week by State Assemblyman Louis Francis.

"Many municipal courts in the state have less population than the Daly City area," he said.

"It is wrong to deprive the north county citizens of services the other county residents have.

LOUIS FRANCIS
. . . court bill

"Whatever the cost, it is only peanuts," Francis said, "compared to the $30 million annual county budget."

However, The Record last week surveyed the question of a municipal court and estimated the court would cost $24,000 more than at present.

Basically, the plan calls for a new judge sitting in Daly City, serving the 70,000 people of Pacifica-Colma - Broadmoor - Daly City.

Using the City Council chambers, a new courthouse is not needed. Since the four cities now pay the county $20,000 as their share of the cost of the South San Francisco municipal court, the same money would be used to pay for the new Daly City court.

Salaries for judge, bailiff, clerks; rent, jury fees, and office expenses would total $44,500 a year, or $24,000 more than the $20,500 the four city cities now pay.

This is the way it works:

Criminal, civil and traffic cases originating in the four cities now bring an income of about $78,500 to the North Judicial District municipal court, which sits in South San Francisco.

Of the $78,500, the court gives $20,500 to the county and $57,000 back to the four cities.

Last year all cities and unincorporated areas in the north district paid the county $30,000 more than it cost to run the north court. The county thus makes money on the court.

The four cities, if they decided in favor of a new court here, would have their $57,000 court share to pay the added $24,000 needed for it.

"But, anyway," Judge Charles Becker of the South San Francisco court says, "money spent on administration of justice is never wasted." Judge Becker, however, though wanting a new judge is unsure whether he should sit in Daly City or South San Francisco.

Pacifica Mayor Harold Feyge and the Pacifica city council have endorsed the new court plan informally and have it on their agenda this week. Daly

City-Wide Drive To Wipe Out The 'Litter-Bugging'

Daly City officials and department heads are asking full public cooperation in cleaning up certain eyesores caused by litterbugs, curbside auto repairs, and cluttered vacant lots.

Mayor Frank Pacelli Monday night reported the city engineer and street superintendent are making a complete survey of the older area of town on these hazards to public welfare.

"We intend to do as much as we legally can to correct certain conditions that are a blight on Daly City," said the mayor.

Bill Chapman, city engineer, declared that his office had mailed letters to owners of several lots that are unsightly and don't conform to city ordinances for tidiness and safety. Police and firemen also are taking note of blight conditions and negligent property owners will be asked to make amends.

Close surveillance will be kept on old autos, particularly those in various stages of repair which are left outside for long periods and seldom are moved.

The council Monday night discussed the "anti-litterbug" movement after a letter from resident Mrs. Horacio B. San-

SEWAGE PLANT 'DIGESTER' TO COST $225,000

A $225,000 addition to the sewage plant of the North San Mateo County Sanitation District near the central fire station is on the books.

Plans for the new solid material digester and various grit removal structures are being reviewed by district engineer C. L. White.

Present solid material facilities at the disposal plant have become caked with egg shells, coffee grains and sand. The plant cannot be closed down for cleaning because of backing up of service.

Bids on the new facilities probably will be asked this fall, according to James Morton, attorney for the board.

At this week's meeting the board awarded a $6543 contract to Joseph Ragni & Sons, 134 Acton street, Daly City, for moving a garage on the plant grounds.

County Supervisor Edward McDonald, sitting in the chair for Supervisor Tom Callan, approved revision of technical details relating to change in grade and location of some Callan Park sewage plans.

Additionally, the board directed consulting engineer Ted Tronoff to prepare, at the expense of Callan Park, a report showing the interior sewage disposal program for the planned community.

'Good Gov'ment' Group Organizes --For Recall?

The citizens group that successfully worked for the defeat of Callan Park Tuesday night elected its first officers, adopted temporary by-laws and a constitution, and again rumbled dissatisfaction with the Daly City council majority.

The Citizens Committee For Good Government officially assummed permanent status in the session at Benjamin Franklin School.

Fred J. Walker, resident at 255 Palisades drive, was chosen chairman. Civil Engineer Julius F. Castelan, 862 Bellevue avenue, former city engineer of Daly City, is the vice chairman. Attorney Edward O'Haire, 107 Mariposa drive, is treasurer, and Mrs. Rodney Eldredge, 211 Lakeshire drive, was named unit secretary.

Walker, Castelan and O'Haire were instrumental in campaigning for "no" on Callan Park annexation to Daly City.

The Citizens Committee will appoint various committee chairmen at their next meeting, Tuesday, September 27, at 8 p.m. at Benjamin Franklin. Attendance then is expected to exceed Tuesday's audience of about 35 homeowners.

As a starter, a spokesman

Callan Quits Posts

Tom Callan, chairman of the county supervisors, this week removed himself from the county planning board and the north county sanitation district.

He said his purpose was to avoid appearance of conflict of interest of public duties with the multi-million dollar planned community, Callan Park.

The development is owned by his sons, Mike and Tom, Jr.

Callan Park, an 871 acre area, recently lost 2-to-1 in an election attempt to annex itself to Daly City. The city's planning and zoning laws are less stringent than the county's before which the Callan boys must soon go for approval of their community.

Tom Callan, long-time north county figure, is running for re-election to the Board of Supervisors this fall.

"I think the people will feel happier," he said. "I have removed myself for as long as the Callan Park matter will arise.

"I am supposed by law to sit on those boards—but I also can appoint a representative, with the concurrence of the other supervisors — on those boards.

"Believe me, I can act without prejudice. But that's not the question. It (his removal) will absolutely stop talk."

Callan appointed Supervisor Edward McDonald to his place on both boards. He said the other supervisors will be asked to approve his action this week.

His self-removal was not as surprising as it appeared on the surface. In the past, whenever any question of Callan financial interests formally came before any board he sat on, he has abstained from voting.

And young Mike Callan says his father has always been stricter with him than other builders. "He asks us to set the example," he says.

Political Campaign

Both elder and younger Callan's lives have taken political color, but the two generations are trying to disassociate themselves.

"I don't expect any help of any sort from my father" Mike says; and Tom says "Those boys are running their own show."

Mike is in the difficult position of having to present the county planning board with plans for his community soon, before the election, because of $1000-a-day interest he is paying on money he borrowed to develop Callan Park.

And the planning board, now without a code appropriate for a planned community, will be asked to make new rules.

Callan Park, to cost more than $100 million, will be a town in itself. The planning board is set up to handle one

Council Wants More Answers On $30,000 Water System Survey

Daly City councilmen Monday night heard the city manager's initial and terse "conclusions" on the $30,000 water report which was delivered by the outside firm of Washington and Associates six months late.

Long dubious about the delay and the immediate value of the voluminous document, the council, at the urging in particular of Micheal DeBernardi, designated their next study session for more specific questions of the staff on the report.

Edward Frank, city manager, said the report "justifies previous staff recommendations to the council for this year's budget plan in relation to proposed expenditures for the general improvement of the system."

"The report," Frank went on, "also strengthens this office's conviction of the competence of the city engineer's office and the water department personnel in being able to cope with problems suggested in the report—given sufficient time and money. Such already is the case in this year's budget, as far as money is available, and also keeping in mind a 'pay as you go' philosophy."

The city manager pointed out, however, "there are points of difference that normally exist when such reports are submitted for staff study."

At any rate, Frank concluded that the report should be helpful in the city's intended five-year water improvements plan. Long needed system improvements are a major item in the present budget.

The council's hesitation in accepting the report as a "cure-all" document to be followed to the letter was emphasized by

Serra-Eastmoor Signals Project Still Complicated

County, city and state harmony in a "meeting of the minds" still has to be resolved if Daly City's long-requested drive for traffic signals at the rugged Eastmoor avenue-Junipero Serra crossing is to end with success.

Public hearing on closing off San Fernando Way — which parallels Eastmoor—was continued Monday night by the council after confusion ensued on just what the city wants done in order to get state authorization for the signals.

Almost three months ago the council was asked by the state to abandon San Fernando Way (old San Pedro road) as the final step conditional to state approval of Eastmoor-Serra signals. Since Junipero Serra and a portion of Eastmoor at this spot are in the county, city officials notified the county engineer and urged supervisors to cooperate fully with the state on the three jurisdictions project.

Monday night, however, County Supervisor Tom Callan of Colma asked councilmen to hold off any action on closing San Fernando Way "until the residents off San Fernando Way are notified and are allowed to protest the blocking

SANITATION BOARD UNDER FIRE

Resignations Demanded Of 2 Councilmen

The citizens' group working for the ouster of the city council "majority," Monday night continued their drive by demanding that Mayor Frank Pacelli and Councilman Bob St. Clair "immediately resign as north county sanitation district directors."

Attorney Edward O'Haire of the Citizens Committee For Good Government made the request and chairman Fred J. Walker of the same group was vociferous in backing him up.

Pacelli and St. Clair, the latter chairman of the three-member sanitation board (supervisor Tom Callan was the third member until this week), calmly absorbed O'Haire's charges and Walker's from-the-audience remarks. As they did August 22 when the Citizens Committee requested four of the councilmen to resign on the heels of the Callan Park annexation defeat, the same coucilmen Monday night appeared relatively unperturbed.

O'Hare's tirade — aimed at Pacelli and St. Clair—began when he asked: "What is being done to get the Callan Park tract out of the local sanitation district?"

The attorney, a St. Francis Heights resident, charged that Pacelli and St. Clair "can't wear both hats as councilmen and sanitation district directors . . . you voted for the annexation of Callan Park to the sanitation district without due consideration of the consequences and the tax burden this would bring to Daly City residents. . . . Daly City voters decisively ..rejected ..Callan Park . . . and even now that Callan Park isn't in Daly City it still will affect our taxes as long as it is in the sanitation district."

O'Haire continued: "Since you (Pacelli) and St. Clair were so vociferous in your endorsement of Callan Park, we feel neither of you can objectively represent the citizens of Daly City and we request that both of you resign and let two other councilmen serve on the sanitation board in your place — two councilmen who can better serve the people of Daly City."

St. Clair responded: "You say you would like us to resign—you as an individual? That's a pretty rash statement."

Walker then jumped to his

New Planning Code Accepted, Board Stronger

The City Planning Commission this week finished a new code: the result of two years effort. If approved, it will changed the board from an advising group to a regulating group.

The new code:

—Creates a new city zone, to be known as R-4, to be used by co-operative apartments, club houses, rest homes, social halls, hotels and motels. All now in these classes will be excepted.

—Creates a new industrial zone, to be known as Planned Industrial, fixing a minimum site requirement of 10,000 square feet and a maximum height of 50 feet. Industrial zones are at the east end of Market street on the hill and the bottom of Mission street in un-incorporated Colma.

—Gives the planning board final word on variance and use permits, except for appeal to the city council. Variance and use permits make up more than 50-percent of the boards' business. In the past the planning board has merely recommended that the city council approve or disapprove these requests.

The new code will have to be approved by the city council, which will of course have to hold hearings, on it, just as the planning commission has.

The planning commission also okayed the tentative map for 200 houses in Panorama Heights. They will be built on the San Francisco side of Bellvue and South Hill avenues. The city council will next approve the tentative map and

Park Flare-up Subsides With All In Accord

The tempest over teapot-size but vital Edgewood Park was resolved Monday night when Daly City councilmen unanimously endorsed recommendations of the parks-recreation commission and the administrative staff for repairs and more utilization of the smallish east-side playground.

On motion of Councilman Bob St. Clair, the council ordered resolutions for their next meeting to transfer $3700 from the park-recreation reserve fund for Edgewood repairs and equipment, plus salary allocations for supervisory personnel who will be returned to the park on a limited basis the balance of the current fiscal year.

City Manager Edward Frank, who spearheaded last week's "harmony" meet between the city parks-recreation commission and the 116 East Vista avenue residents who petitioned to save the park, also was backed by the council in his recommendation for an additional study of the Edgewood Park betterment campaign — "with the view of submitting recommendations relative to further improvements and use of this playground for next year's budget."

Mayor Frank Pacelli, after letters from Urban Pope of the petitioners and former city recreation commissioner Joe Sarto were read to the audience, praised "the commission and staff and the people in the Edgewood Park area for working out a satisfactory solution."

Councilman Micheal DeBernardi scored, however, "the adverse publicity we got on this park misunderstanding," and he cautioned: "If any city commission gets into the area of making recommendations of such scope, it behooves them to completely check out the facts and ascertain the council's position on these matters."

The city manager in his written recommendation to the council completely took them off the hook, declaring that "any recommendation that has been made or action taken concerning Edgewood Park is the responsibility of this office—

11,756 Students On First Day At Grades & Highs

First day enrollment in Jefferson Elementary District's 17 schools tallied 8190 pupils, Director of Instruction Dr. Vinton Stratton reports.

This was a jump of 1051 over student population last year.

In the high schools, first day attendance reached 3566 — 507 more than last year, Supt. Ed Morgan said.

Jefferson had 1308 students, Westmoor 1359 and Oceana (afternoon at Westmoor) 899.

By grades, the new totals are: kindergarten, 1225; first grade, 997; second, 1003; third, 962; fourth, 899; fifth, 820; sixth, 798; seventh, 763; eighth, 698, and special classes, 34.

By schools: Ben Franklin, 855; Thomas Edison (housing some Christopher Columbus area youngsters), 728; Garden Village, 647; Colma Intermediate, 615; Colma K-6, 587; Abe Lincoln, 566; Vista Mar, 559; Woodrow Wilson, 541; Fernando Rivera, 477; Westlake, 428; Daniel Webster, 425; Olympia, 414; Crocker, 336; Jefferson, 318; General Pershing, 297; Vista Grande, 251, and Thornton, 146.

HIGH SCHOOLS SELL $1 MILLION BONDS; HIRE 47 NITE TEACHERS

Nearly $1 million in school bonds will be sold this fall by the local Jefferson Union High School District, the district board decided this week.

The bonds--$965,000 worth--are the last approved by the voters in 1957. To get more, the board will ask for a bond election next spring.

The $965,000 will be used by the district to qualify for state help in school construction for the rest of the year. Specifically, the state and district will spend this and other public money to remodel Jefferson High School; build an addition to Westmoor, and build Oceana and Terra Nova high schools in Pacifica.

Fred Goodell, district business manager, said the Jefferson Union High School District has an assessed valuation (by the county appraiser) of $102 million. This is about one-quarter actual value.

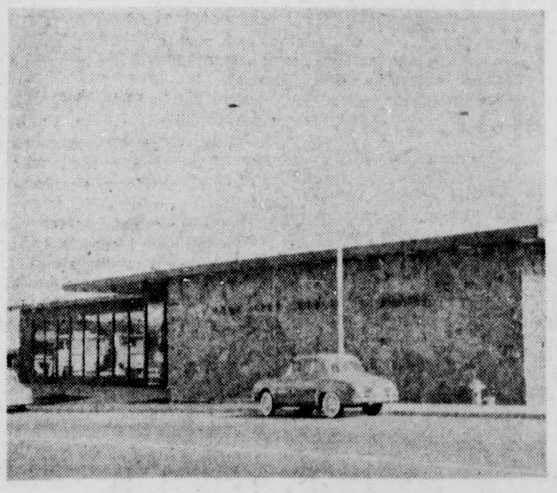

The district can only sell one-twentieth of its valuation in bonds, however, at any time. The bonds are paid off by school district taxes.

The high school board this Monday also hired 47 teachers for its Adult School. The teachers are paid $4.50 a teaching hour. Fourteen of the 47 are new teachers--the rest teach during the day at district schools.

Formally, the board rejected all bids on the Oceana High School. The lowest was $1,846,000 by Dickman Construction Co. of Mountain View. Goodell said architect Mario Ciampi has re-drawn part of the plans for the school. The revision is now before the State Division of Architecture.

The rejection of bids, district superintendent Ed Morgan said, will definitely postpone opening Oceana High School past the planned date of September 1961. However, the board hopes to ask for new bids during October.

Additionally, no architect, neither Mario Ciampi or Falk and Booth were hired for the Jefferson High remodeling or Westmoor addition. The board was not fully satisfied, Goodell said, with architects preliminary plans and schedules for the two projects.

DALY CITY'S new main library, a $143,000 project, is ready except for final placement of books and furniture. Located on Southgate avenue across from Windsor drive, the facility will have its grand opening early next month. The structure was designed by resident architect John Gloe.

Francis' Bill

City's council is now trying to make the plan more concrete.

"It is a cinch," Assemblymen Francis said, "that a new court in Daly City will bring more court revenue. It would be hard to say how much, but I know a lot of Daly City contract and tort cases go to San Francisco —simply because it is nearer."

Francis' bill, to be dropped in the Legislative hopper next term, would revise California Statutes of 1951, Chapter 1226, page 3071, Section 73.601 of the Government Code, Article 8, entitled Daly City and South San Francisco.

Francis' bill would change the sub-head Judges to read: "There shall be two judges"—instead of just one. Both San Mateo and Redwood City courts already have two judges.

Judge Becker has called his court "the biggest one-man court in California—more cases, more revenue, more population.

The county Board of Supervisors, despite the fact that the cities pay for their own courts, actually budgets the money for the court. And because of this, the supervisors would have to approve the new court for Pacifica - Colma - Broadmoor-Daly City.

Francis says that after his bill was passed, the governor would want a resolution from the supervisors favoring the court before he would sign his name to it. "It's customary," Francis said.

WHAT'S DOING

F. P. Riddle, your Telephone Manager in San Francisco

Here's something new. It's a drive-up phone. And right now it's being tested around the Pacific West to see if folks find it as handy and convenient as we think it is. The idea is to provide curbside phone service so you can call without getting out of your car—a real convenience. It's lighted so you can use it at night as well as during the day. We think you'll find it a faster and easier way to telephone when you're in your car and want to make a call.

There's gold in your telephone. Not very much, to be sure. Gold is used because it just won't rust. And it's put in spots such as dial switch points to insure long, trouble-free service. I suppose you're wondering how much the gold in your phone is worth. The folks at Western Electric who make our phones say there's less than a penny's worth in each. That's hardly enough to tip these scales or go prospecting for, but plenty to help keep your phone dependable.

September is schooltime, and a lot of young people will be leaving home for college or boarding school. Here's one good way to stay in touch with them—by telephone. Lots of folks set a regular time for calling and keeping up on the news. And more often than not, this time is on a Sunday or on weekdays after 6:00 p.m. when station-to-station rates are lower. The pleasure is big and the cost is small—a lot smaller than you think—when you keep in touch by telephone.

Public Invited To Inspect City's New Fire Station This Weekend

You and the kids can ask any question you want this Saturday and Sunday when Daly City firemen host "open house" tours of the recently opened $98,682 fire station in Westlake on the corner of Lincoln avenue and Edgemont drive. The facility-in case you're not familiar with the neighborhood—is a couple of blocks east of Southgate avenue and about the same distance south of Westmoor High School.

The open house will run from 1 to 5 p.m. both days.

Battalion Fire Chief Mel Hanson will be in charge of the tours, and Fire Chief Elmer Kennedy, his top aides, and department regulars will go into detail on the workings of the hosemen, the types of equipment, the fire alarm and communications system, and the duties and situations that confront personnel.

Contractor C. J. Collins of San Francisco built the station on its 150x150 foot site—location of which was recommended to city officials in 1958 by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The building itself covers 4240 square feet. Architect John Gloe, a Westlake resident, designed the station.

Of special interest to tour takers should be the fire department's new 1250-gallon-per-minute pumper truck.

Sales tax monies paid for the station site and the entire construction cost—a factor that homeowners should remember when they stress the need for similar new municipal facilities.

Chief Kennedy expects quite a turnout. He reminds youngsters that it would be nice if they would be accompanied by their parents.

Again, the hours for the public tours are 1 to 5 in the afternoon.

In other action, the council:

1. Approved Planning Commission's recommendation for granting variance to Our Lady of Mercy parish, reducing front yard setback from 15 to 5 feet for convent expansion on Elmwood drive in Westlake.

2. Rejected three "too high" bids on prefabricated metal storage building to be erected at city corporation yard. All three exceeded the estimated $10,000 cost of the structure. New bids will be called.

3. Inked year-long agreement with Peninsula Ambulance Service, terminable on 30-day notice.

4. Approved calling bids for $28,000 resurfacing job and flasher signals installation on Mission street — from Wellington to the San Francisco line. The flasher devices will be located on short center islands at the Crocker and Templeton intersections.

5. Adopted Ord. 523 to gain eligibility for matching state funds for recruiting and training police officers.

6. Denied $183.59 damage claim filed by Peter R. Fustini, 430 Second lane, South San Francisco, who charged his vehicle was damaged in a mishap caused by sub-standard street surface conditions on Mission.

said, the full committee plans to meet at least four times each year, inviting all "residents interested in good government and school affairs to attend." The group will take definite stands on all community issues of consequence with the objective of urging more participation in local government.

Executive committee of the unit plans to meet at least once a month--except for the summer period.

Principal topic at the organizational meet was O'Haire's report on his request that Mayor Frank Pacelli and Councilman Bob St. Clair resign from the North County Sanitation Board. Both O'Haire and Walker got little response when they challenged the two councilmen for not attemting to have Callan Park removed from the sewer district. Pacelli intimated that the district is a separate entity and any dis-annexation of the tract from the local district would be up to the board of supervisors.

Some observers feel the Citizens Committee within the next two weeks will begin a petition drive for a special election to recall Pacelli, St. Clair, Micheal DeBernardi and Edward Dennis.

A report is expected at the next Citizens Committee meeting on the recall "process." There was no indication, however, that the group had made its decision, however, to attempt a recall drive.

off of this key access route for them."

The council also heard resident Michael Borras, 505 San Fernando Way, protest the closing. He cited the need of the narrow road for fire protection access, explaining that 13 homes would be cut off from this service if San Fernando is closed at Junipero Serra.

Callan noted a written protest from Colma volunteer fire department commissioners who vigorously oppose San Fernando abandonment.

"I didn't know about this proposal until last Saturday when about a dozen of these people came to my home. I represent the north county and these unincorporated area residents don't want San Fernando blocked off. I wasn't aware of this plan until last weekend, and I would like to have the council hold off any action until all parties can get together," urged Callan.

He added: "I don't look favorably on closing this road until the people who would be affected by it have a chance to be heard."

Mayor Frank Pacelli, fellow councilmen and the city manager then told Callan that the county had been notified from the start of the council's plan and couldn't understand why he hadn't been apprised of the situation.

J. A. Adams, owner of the paint factory fronting Junipero Serra between San Fernando Way and Eastmoor, also protested the San Fernando closure Monday night. He said it would hurt his business operations because his trucks would be denied their usual access for loading. Adams said he thought the state could work out a solution and perhaps install signals at both spots — San Fernando-Serra and Eastmoor-Serra.

Earlier the city council met with PG&E officials in an effort to negotiate for PG&E property which could be used for a lateral road connecting San Fernando Way and Eastmoor — predicated on the abandoment of San Fernando where it touches Junipero Serra. PG&E decided it could not do this because it has transformers on this strip.

The council now hopes to negotiate with Adams for property behind the paint factory for the lateral. Adams, however, explained he does not wish to sell this "income" strip.

then the process starts over again with the final map.

A new rest home at 3280 San Jose avenue, to be owned by Mrs. Dessie M. Conley of 730 Millbrae avenue, Santa Rosa, was approved by the planning board. The new Nolan annex to the city was zoned Residential-3 and Henry Doelger had his final map for 12 homes on Seavue drive approved.

and should not be a reflection on the council, who only approved our recommendation."

Frank said his final recommendations to the council were such "because it is evident that a large group of residents in the area around the park have a sincere desire for the general maintenance of and some supervision at the park, although this feeling was not demonstrated prior to the recommendation of the staff, and knowing that the people who were present at the meeting on September 6 were sincere in their expressions of interest in the children in the neighborhood (the number of whom, incidentally, has increased materially in the last two years).

DeBernardi noted that he was "outvoted a couple of years ago when the council moved to discontinue stationing a supervisor at the park when Vista Grande school playground entered the city-schools joint-use of facilities program."

"There were no citizens who came before the council then to protest the action," DeBernardi pointed out. "Unless matters of this nature are brought directly to the council there can be some confusion through this lack of communication."

Citizen Pope's letter to the council included his statement that builder Tom Callan Jr. had called him "personally" to reassure Edgewood area residents that Callan Company, which intends to erect apartments south of the park on the hillside, definitely wants the park improved and at no time wanted to buy the park site from the city for a possible access road to the apartments.

Sarto, owner of the Villa sanitarium and long-time youth leader here, urged the council in a brief letter to continue the Edgewood Park operation. He declared: "In an expanding community with an ever increasing population, especially children, we are in need of improving and expanding our present facilities instead of curtailing them. The elimination of this facility would be detrimental to the welfare of the children and the community.

Sarto was on the city parks-recreation commission for several years, then resigned in protest of the city's action about two years ago in connection with the sale of the parking lot area adjoining Marchbanks Park.

Water Survey

Councilman DeBernardi.

"The report is large, but before I personally can accept it, I have many questions about its contents and how certain recommendations apply and have practicality here," said DeBernardi. "I think we are heading in the right direction in the total water program, but we'll have to go into the report in more detail before assessing its ultimate merits."

Both the city administrative staff and the council expressed outright anger over the firm's delay and request early this year for an extension in submitting the report as complete.

Typical of the council's wariness on the value of the report was the remark one councilman made recently that "if we did everything the report suggests, we would be talking about thousands of dollars of expenditures immediately — which isn't too practical because we just don't have that kind of money and won't have it unless we go for bond issues."

Washington and Associates, with chief engineer Louis Dunn and civil engineer Julius Castelan, a Daly City resident and former city engineer here, doing the bulk of the work, was awarded the expensive survey contract last year.

Dunn, in delivering the report to city offiicals last month, apologized for the delay but stressed that the quality of the survey and its value as a working guide would by far outweight any ill feelings caused by the extension of time over the report's original delivery date expected by the council.

All new and present faculty and their families are invited to attend. Sport clothes are in order, and refreshments will be served.

Adult School Signups Roll In As Courses Appeal To Localites

Fall semester enrollments moved at a brisk pace this week in the Jefferson Adult Evening School, it was announced today by Louis J. Martin, principal. Classes in Upholstering, Driver Education, Slim Trim for Women and Arc Welding were nearing full capacity.

Added to the regular class offerings are such new courses as Photography on Mondays at Jefferson, French on Tuesdays at Westmoor, Survival Kit for Parents II at Westmoor on Wednesday, Philosophy on Thursday at Jefferson, and Introduction to Sociology on Mondays, also at Jefferson.

This class meets in Art Room A & B at Westmoor on Wednesday, 7 to 10 p.m.

For these and other classes call PL 5-1162 for additional information. The basic registration fee is $1 and this entitles students to take as many classes as they wish.

Ouster Asked

feet and verified: "O'Haire is spokesman for our group and I am its chairman who authorized him to represent us tonight."

O'Haire further answered St. Clair: "A great many people support our views of your performances."

St. Clair, speaking firmly and in a reasonable tone, then refuted O'Haire's statements, declaring: "We (the sanitation board) have set up a separate maintenance district in Callan Park which will have a different tax rate and will not affect the taxes of Daly City homeowners."

"We had the same arrangement with Doelger in Westlake Unit 11, Knolls, by which the builder put in all the sewage facilities and paid for two pumping stations," St. Clair explained. "The tax rate and extra costs there in no way affect other areas of Daly City."

O'Haire pursued another point. "But Daly City encompasses the major portion of the sanitation district. Isn't it true that if the district has trouble setting up this special assessment district as far as selling bonds is concerned that residents of the entire district may have to pay for the costs of sewer service in the Callan tract?"

St. Clair termed O'Haire's statement "merely an assumption," and City Attorney Paul Hupf disagreed with O'Haire, declaring: "This all depends on the nature of the bonds and the terminology assigning cost responsibilities."

O'Haire continued: "Is anything being done by the council to dis-annex Callan Park from the sewer district?"

Mayor Pacelli's reply was one word—"no."

Walker then took over. "I talked with your attorney, James Morton of the sanitation district, and he told me there is no legal agreement yet between the sanitation district and the Callan Company on cost arrangements in Callan Park."

"When I asked Morton if in the absence of any binding agreement sanitation expenses depend entirely on the honor and integrity of the three sanitation directors to safeguard other residents against Callan Park sewer costs, his answer was 'that is correct.'"

Finalized Walker: "The Callans have agreed to nothing with the district and you have no legal agreement to protect local taxpayers. . . . Daly City taxpayers will be bound to pay for sanitation costs in Callan Park—can you deny this!"

Pacelli came back with "we have nothing to deny."

The mayor later said Callan dis-annexation from the north end district "was a matter for the board of supervisors to decide" and "we are only in the preliminary stage as far as sanitation facilities for Callan Park are concerned and an agreement will be worked out."

St. Clair added, "We would like to have you, Mr. Walker, attend our sanitation board meetings to get the correct information on what we are doing."

Walker asked when the meetings are held. St. Clair said the next one would be next Monday morning at the Westlake plant. Walker said he couldn't attend "because I'm a working man."

Councilman Edward Dennis suggested Walker could get all information on sanitation district actions by calling the district secretary. Councilman Micheal DeBernardi made no comment, and Councilman Joseph Verducci was absent from the meeting.

Walker's parting request was—"I would like to have the statements I made tonight made a part of the official minutes of this meeting."

The mayor so ordered.

building or groups of buildings, but not towns.

"I cannot build to a particular segment of the population. It's poor planning," Mike Callan says.

"I am going to have homes; one or two story cooperative apartment buildings for older people, and 16-to-20 story apartments much later for executives. And then there are the shopping centers."

On the North San Mateo Sanitation District board besides Tom Callan (now Ed McDonald) are Daly City Mayor Frank Pacelli and Councilman Bob St. Clair. St. Clair, district chairman, and Pacelli were attacked by the Citizens Committe for Good Government this week for taking Callan Park in the district.

It was the citizens committee which spearheaded the fight against Callan Park annexation. Pacelli and St. Clair were charged with having "sold out" to Callan Park and overloading Daly City's sewage system.

But St. Clair made it clear Callan Park will pay for whatever service it gets—and that when the development finally presents its sewage plans to the district, the districts' engineers will have final say on the new community's plans.

Not satisfied with St. Clair's answer, citizen's committee attorney Edward O'Haire said he would return at the next council meeting with more backing and more questions.

Callan Park, revised for county standards, will shape up this way, Mike Callan said this week:

1) For senior people: two to four story, one bedroom apartments to be sold cooperatively for $10,000 to $14,000.

2) For young married couples; four story, two bedroom apartments to cost $11,000 to $13,000.

3) For people with teenage children; 20 story apartment buildings to be rented.

4) Homes, built on from 50-foot lots to ½ acres, costing from $16,000 to $35,000 — the most expensive overlooking California Golf Club.

5) Shopping center(s); nothing definite.

School Discipline Versus Rowdies -- Punishment's Out, Restraint Is Word Used These Days And It's Effective

How much can a kid get away with in school?

How far can a teacher go in discipline?

What about bullies? Cursing? Mal-treating school property? The answer is: it's a fine line. Both state laws and the local school boards have retreated from the ultra-progressive "don't touch the darlings" of several years ago.

Nowadays, this is the line they take.

Time spent in classroom control is time taken from teaching. The student who causes trouble takes learning periods from his whole class. Any disciplinary action should be constructive and remedial. That is, no punishment for punishment's sake.

But restraint is a key word. The rules say "a teacher should not strike, shake or push pupils as a disciplinary measure," but this does NOT imply a hands-off policy.

"When circumstances require the teacher to physically restrain a pupil, the handling should be done in a reasonable manner—without anger, malice or unneeded force."

There is another catch here. Legally, the teacher is personally liable for his actions in matters of physical maintenance of order.

As a rule, teachers are quite coldly calculating when they see their class lessons being disturbed. If a child is raising cain and won't quit, he is invited to leave the class.

The local board does not favor assigning extra work, copying of pages of useless material or writing something 500 times or more.

And the school law specificly says "no pupil shall be required to remain in school during recess or lunch periods."

But pupils may be kept after school—for not more than an hour—if transportation permits. Also, the teacher should give the parents no reason to worry about why the child is not home on time.

But a school principal has full right to punish a pupil physically if all else fails. School officials call it "a last resort." The principal does well to have a teacher or two as a witness, though.

Generally, ragging other students, bullying, profane language, destroying any property is not allowed to persist.

A teacher can deny privileges, assign special tasks, suspend temporarily—and as any grown-up knows, there are delicate ways a child can be made unhappy to get good behavior.

It's a fine line. Nobody knows quite where they stand, so both teacher and kids tend to be extra careful.

Employment Service's SSF Office Marks Milestone, Cites Benefits To North SM County's 'Jobless'

Northern San Mateo County workers received $1,051,759 in unemployment insurance benefits during the 12 months ending June 30, it was announced today by Gilbert Keitle, manager of the South San Francisco office of the California State Employment Service.

"North San Mateo County merchants were also benefited by these temporary payments to jobless workers in that they were enabled to pay their own bills through this boost in community purchasing power," Keitle said.

"September 15 marks the 25th anniversary of California's unemployment insurance program," pointed out Keitle. "In Northern San Mateo County we have approximately 2500 employers, with a total of 26,000 employees, who are covered by unemployment insurance.

"In addition there are 1000 Federal Government employees who are protected by job insurance, paid from Federal funds.

"Every new industry, every plant shutdown, every seasonal layoff or job recall, affects the community and the employment service operations alike," Keitle said.

He emphasized that Employment Service personnel feel a deep sense of gratitude for cooperation of the city's employers and organizations, and we want to continue to serve the community in every way possible to help attain economic security."

In this anniversary month of September, marking 25 years of unemployment insurance, the South San Francisco office will take about 700 new job applications, place workers on some 200 farm or nonfarm jobs, will take 600 initial claims for unemployment insurance and counsel some 20 workers.

Every day is new at the employment service, bringing new layoffs, new labor needs, more applicants with more problems, more conference with employers to help solve their employment problems, Keitle said.

After eight years in the present location, the South San Francisco office will shortly move to a new larger office at 215 Miller avenue, where facilities will permit a better service to the Northern San Mateo County area served by the office.

Try, Try Again, If At First You Don't Succeed: Rotarians

Daly City Rotarians—all 46 of them—are memorizing the motto "if at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

Last Wednesday was set aside for Rotary District Governor Francis E. Whitmer's annual visit to the local unit. He showed up—but only a handful of DC members responded.

So, Dr. Louis Minkin, DC Rotary president, expressed his regrets, and asked Whitmer to return here November 9 for another visit—this time hoping the audience will be more plentiful.

Whitmer wasn't too disturbed because he agreed that there may have been some schedule conflicts for the Daly City men, particularly since his visit was mid-week and school was about to start, et cetera.

Whitmer did address the sparse gathering, however, repeating Rotary's objectives and explaining the scope of its international membership. He said that California has 10 Rotary distircts. There are 52 clubs and 4000 members in the district to which the DC club is affiliated. Rotary International, to go further, is divided into 260 districts. And finally, Rotary clubs with 497,000 Rotary members in 119 countries.

DC Rotary vice president Ed Morgan, concluded his weekly bulletin with a robust Rotarian slogan: "Service Above Self—He Profits Most Who Serves Best!"

Council Parries 'From The Top' Library Rumors

Mayor Frank Pacelli and fellow councilmen Monday night squelched rumors "from a high city source" that the old Mission street branch library would take a back seat and suffer by the debut of the new main library in Westlake.

East Vista avenue resident John McNellis, who last week challenged the council on other rumors that they were planning to sell Edgewood Park, prompted the library discussion Monday evening.

He asked the council for answers to the following questions: "Will the Mission library be closed when the Southgate building is operational, 2) Will the Mission library be a branch of the new one, 3) Will many books be removed from the Mission branch to stock the Westlake plant, 4) If so, what types of books and how many will be taken from the Mission branch, 5) What right do you have to recommend the removal of books from old Daly City to the new area, 6) Is it true that certain books already have been transferred?

McNellis summarily added that he didn't think the old side of town should be deprived of its library volumes to satisfy Westlake area residents.

Mayor Frank Pacelli, earlier commenting on the new library's progress and the council's approval of $1800 for landscaping the site, quickly answered the queries:

"Apparently your source of information has more information than we do. To my knowledge the Mission street branch in no way will suffer because of the new main library. I thought I emphasized that the new addition, replacing the tiny branch on Park Plaza, will bring balance to our city-wide library offerings."

Pacelli then urged McNellis to get "all the information you want" about the library program "by attending the monthly library commission meetings."

City Manaager Edward Frank explained that the new library will be stocked with books transferred from the Westlake branch and $10,000 more in new books that are on order now."

Councilman Bob St. Clair told McNellis: "You should go before the library board if you have any doubts about our program—I don't think the council is aware of the exact number of books that will be shifted or the specific arrangements for the new facility."

McNellis, declaring that he was satisfied with the council's answers, thanked them for the explanations and advice.

City Librarian Sam Chandler, questioned on similar rumors about the Mission branch last week, replied that "so few books will be transferred to the new main library that they are insignificant."

He said the Mission branch would continue in full operation, provide complete service, and would be stocked with about 18,000 books.

DALY CITY MAN PREPARING FOR THE PRIESTHOOD

George W. Lee, S.J., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Lee, 117 St. Francis boulevard, Daly City, begins his theological studies in preparation for the Jesuit priesthood this week at West Baden College, West Baden Springs, Indiana.

Mr. Lee is a graduate of St. Anne's parochial school and St. Ignatius High School. He spent three years at the University of San Francisco before entering the Sacred Heart Novitiate at Los Gatos. Previous to this he served in the United States Air Force, and was captured and imprisoned by the Germans in 1944.

Mr. Lee comes to West Baden College, the school of philosophy and theology of the Society of Jesus in the Midwest, from St. Ignatius High School, San Francisco, where he taught Algebra, English and Spanish, and coached the tennis team.

After completing his theological Studies and being ordained he will be assigned to Jesuit House for further work.

'$ For Demos' Workers Here Need Helpers

Democratic precinct workers in the Daly City-Colma area are participating in the California "Dollars for Democrats" drive, September 9 to 19.

This is part of a national drive to collect one dollar from every registered Democrat. The purpose is to broaden the base of financial support of the party. One third of the money collected goes to the Democratic National Committee, one third to the State Central Committee, and one third to the County Central Committee. Volunteer workers are needed. Anyone interested should call Lawrence Freiberg, PL 5-1585 or E. Majourau, PL 5-8516.

CUTE CUSTOMER — Police Officer Les Bastedo of Daly City "sells" pretty Lana Green of 1009 South Mayfair avenue two tickets to the annual ball of the Peninsula Police Officers Association. Lana would get in, anyway. She has been chosen as the queen for the ball, to be held October 1 at Bay Meadows Clubhouse in San Mateo. The yearly event is a benefit for the Widows and Orphans Fund, representing 15 Peninsula police departments. Tickets are now in the mail to residents of the 15 cities.

Interested In City Government? Attend The Commission Meetings!

The people behind the scenes in the machinery of Daly City's government are the citizens who comprise the planning, personnel, parks and recreation, and library commissions.

These boards meet one night each month as advisory bodies to the city council. Their functions include processing requests, checking out protests, recommending improvements, and in general, assisting the city departments and administration via carefully determined decisions.

Attendance by citizens at Daly City commission meetings has been sporadic—to say the least. This is awkward, however, because the agenda matters should concern all homeowners and businessmen interested in Daly City—the total community.

Prior to Monday's city council meeting, there were two vacancies among the 20 commission jobs. The library commission last month lost the services of H. Clifford Dignam, who moved from this community. The personnel board has lacked a fifth member for several months.

The planning commission, headed by chairman Richard Dwyer and comprised of Roy Foster, Del Gore, Tony Masini and John Schaeffer, meets the second Tuesday evening of each month, 8 o'clock at city hall.

Chairman Mel Battye and personnel commissioners John Drye, Joseph Schultz and Robert Young convene each month on the second Thursday evening, also at city hall.

The library commission, with chairman Lionel Farber, Frank DeMartini, Maude Hanselman and Sarah Kelechava, meets the second Wednesday evening each month at 6351 Mission.

Chairman Louis Larcombe calls parks-recreation commissioners Edmund Cavagnaro, Anna Eason, Dutch Elston and William O'Rourke into session at War Memorial Community Center, second floor, on the fourth Tuesday evening of each month.

The city council meets in regular session on the second and fourth Monday nights each month at city hall with an 8 p.m. starting time. Study sessions of the council normally are held the Thursday evening preceding the Monday regular meeting.

Don't forget—all these meetings are public. Why not attend?

HEARING SLATED ON NEW FREEWAYS

A public hearing—to which all concerned are invited—will be held October 13 on the freeway extensions of the Alemany boulevard along the San Francisco waterfront to connect with the Embarcadero freeway. It will be held at 445 Golden Gate avenue, room 1194. Large scale maps of alternative routes and California highway engineers to explain them will be there.

PAL BOWLING RAISES $6000; PAPER PRAISED

Dear Mr. Bradshaw:

On behalf of the Daly City Police Department and the hundreds of boys who belong to our Police Athletic League, I wish to express our deepest gratitude and thanks to you and your newspaper, to the merchants for their generosity in contributing prizes and the all important public for the excellent support given to our recent PAL Benefit Bowling Tournament.

Due in large part to the attention and considerations of the press, the tournament raised some $6000, which will go a long ways towards financing the many facets of the PAL program.

With your continued help and understanding we are certain that PAL can play a large part in helping "Build Better Boys," which is our motto. Again, all of us are grateful for your support.

Sincerely,
R. A. Petrocchi

BODIEN GETS EXCEPTIONAL LIONS HONOR

The first honorary membership ever given by the Lions Club here was presented this week to Arthur J. Bodien, "elder statesman" of Daly City.

Formal presentation of the certificate from International Lions headquarters was made by Postmaster Vince Murphy at the Lions weekly luncheon.

Bodien, long-time Daly City resident, lives at 26 Rice street.

In tendering the membership, Murphy called attention to the honoree's past public services. Bodien is a former mayor, councilman, superintendent of public works and has held numerous semi-official posts.

Judges, Spectators Unanimous: City's Flower Show 'Outstanding'

There was unanimity in Daly City last Sunday — the judges and more than 3000 onlookers echoed approval of the seventh annual Flower Show as the "best ever" staged here.

President Mrs. Ward McLeod of the sponsoring Daly City Garden Club and Show Chairman Mrs. C. M. Yohn today extended "deepest thanks to the people of Daly City for their wonderful response to 'Hawaiian Holiday.'"

The show was declared open by Mayor Frank Pacelli as the Daly City Municipal Band, under leadership of George Brenner, played the national anthem. The band's two-hour program added much to the festive atmosphere.

Members of the Parks and Recreation Department, under the supervision of Director Chuck Vincent, were in charge of placement and had a magnificent display set up on the center stage.

The show was judged by California Garden Clubs Inc. accredited judges — Mrs. Charles P. Scott, Mrs. Kenneth Lauder, Lady LaFrenz, Nicholas Protopopoff, Mrs. E. H. Walter, Mrs. G. P. Panaretos, Mrs. J. Earl Wilson, Mrs. C. R. Wilmore, and Mrs. Naida Hayes. They declared the theme of the show was well carried out in decoration, design and schedule.

Educational exhibits were placed by the San Francisco Rose Society, American Begonia Society, San Francisco Branch, Cactus and Succulent Society of California, Inc., Dahlia Society of California, Inc., Daly City Friends of the Library, and the African Violet Society of San Francisco.

An impressive display of orchids by Rod McLellan Company added much to the distinction and uniqueness in the show. The exhibit on birds designed by Anthony Lemos, Club Conservation chairman, was outstanding. Also, the model garden of Westlake Lutheran Church, which is a Daly City Garden Club project, was declared "outstanding" by California Garden Club State President Mrs. C. P. Scott. Julian P. Hargrove, 107 Village Lane, Colma, received sweepstake awards for the highest scoring in horticulture exhibits.

Mrs. Yohn, was sweepstakes winner in the artistic division and also captured the tri-color for most outstanding arrangement. She also received the Rosenberg Club trophy for highest point scoring in both artistic and horticulture exhibits.

Junior exhibits under the direction of Mrs. T. Parish and Mrs. A. Marquez, were outstanding and achievement awards were presented to Jackie Treanor for her interpretation of "Pineapple Pete." The Daly City Junior Gardeners walked away with coveted achievement awards for their scrapbook on "Garden Clips" and a conservation exhibit of a bird sanctuary.

PARK MEET PUT OFF

The regular meeting of the San Mateo County Parks and Recreation Commission at Flood Park on the 2nd Tuesday of each month at 8 p.m. has been changed to the 3rd Tuesday in September. Members of the Commission will be attending the Conference of National American Institute of Park Executives in Long Beach.

AROUND TOWN

By ROY HURLBERT

POLICE Sgt. Dave Hansen, Officer Frank Murray and DC Personnel Commissioner John Drye witnessed the execution of convicted slayer George Scott last week at San Quentin.

Scott attempted suicide the night before his date with the gas pellets, but he was back to normal (?) the next morn and "went out" like a gentleman.

Hansen, working toward a degree at SF State in public administration, and Murray, who also holds a degree from City College of San Francisco, are two cops who believe the punishment fits the crime.

Scott shotgunned a bystander to death during a Southern California bar holdup.

HEAVILY-INSURED Pete Markovich, secretary-manager of Daly City's Chamber of Commerce, again is being urged by his friends to "take it easy."

Hyperthyroid Pete didn't exactly have an enjoyable vacation. While visiting in-laws in Nebraska, Markovich was stricken with dizzy spells and stomach trouble. He spent three days in the hospital back there before heading home through Colorado Springs.

A a couple of weeks ago, Pete underwent minor surgery for removal of a cyst on his head.

Vacations are vacations?

MAYBE they should label Westmoor's varsity footballers this fall the "Municipals."

At ends, Coach Pete Matisi is counting on Ron (son of the DC police chief) Petrocchi and Chris (son of fire battalion chief) Hanson. And the Rams' number two quarterback hopeful is Mike DeBernardi, sophomore son of the city councilman.

Matisi will have to wait a few years for products of the Pacelli, Verducci and St. Clair households — all Westlake fledglings.

SHOULD mention that Bttn. Chief Hanson has high hopes for son Chris—a budding architect. Mel wants "almost straight A" Chris to study at least a year at the Frank Lloyd Wright school of architecture prior to enrolling at Cal or some other solid training ground for classic designers.

THE Rotarians have all the luck?

Last week they blushed when their district governor made his visit and his listeners were few and far between.

Then—on Friday night, the Rotarians and their wives dined at the Olympic Lakeside and went en masse to see "The Flower Drum Song." For this package deal the club ordered 30 tickets. By mistake, they were given 40 tickets at curtain time, so Ed Morgan, Paul Hupf and prexy Lou Minkin stood outside the theatre and sold the excess ducats. No scalping, however.

THE unique "Garden of Reflection" planned for the grounds of Westlake Lutheran Church in the Palisades will be timed for completion with Daly City's 50th birthday week celebration—during May of 1961.

The "garden" will be a community-service project of the Daly City Garden Club—people of all faiths who are interested in uniform city beautification and spirit.

Only observation from this corner is—let's have more of these city-wide efforts for solidarity.

REMEMBER Frank Rose, the attorney who represented Callan Company in annexation negotiations with Daly City?

Last week the 51-year-old San Matean was named San Mateo County's seventh superior court judge by Governor Pat Brown. Naturally, Rose is a Democrat with a record of service to his party that is commendable.

Also in the running for the $21,000 a year post was San Carlos City Attorney Mel Cohn. Muni judges, by comparison, are salaried at about $18,500 per annum.

To qualify for appointment to the bench, under state law you have to be a member of the bar with at least five years of practicing experience.

REAL estater Art Colvin and motelman George Smith are engaged in a friendly waging feud.

Last month George bet newlywed Art $50 the latter couldn't lose 14 pounds in 30 days. Colvin did, and Smith forked over the fifty. Same time as the first bet, Smith put another $50 on the line and bet Art he would abstain from spirits for a month. George kept his word and got back his $50.

Colvin may turn out the long-run loser, however. Seems he promised his wife, Shirley, that if she restricted his diet and knocked off his excess poundage he'd give her $50 for a new dress.

Long story short, Mrs. C. has a new dress, Colvin is a svelte 164 pounds, and Smith is concentrating on water.

THREE million more women than men will be eligible to vote in the presidential election. And the ladies are expected to turn out in big numbers what with two comparatively young men vying for the job.

Never underestimate the "looks" appeal as far as women are concerned at the ballot boxes. Remember Tom Dewey? His moustache— and a few other factors—contributed to his defeat. The man from Missouri had personal appeal. So do Kennedy and Nixon.

The ladies' choice may be difficult yet decisive this November.

WONDER—just by chance—if those two U. S. security agents who "defected" to Russia are still working for our side.

Could be they are telling tall tales to the Soviets for the purpose of learning more about the latter's lethal objectives.

Wouldn't it be strange if—say a couple of years from now—both prodigals hustle back home with some valuable data for this country?

Daly City Job's Daughters Unit Still On 'Cloud Nine' After Winning National Drill Title

Girls in Daly City's Bethel 198, International Order of Job's Daughters, still haven't calmed down after winning first place in military drill competition at the 40th annual national Job's convention in Long Beach last month.

The Bethel 198 marchers were the only California team capturing first place honors. Also, their Honored Queen, Sheron Chapman, was chosen during the convention as Supreme Representative to the state of Oklahoma.

At present the girls are ready for the new school term and plan fund-raising projects to raise money for a trip in 1961 to Richmond, Virginia, where they will defend their drill team championship.

The drill team champions are: Dorrie Simpson, captain; Mary Fisher, Joanne Jacobson, Sheron Chapman, Janice Garretson, Yvonne Ford, Janice Keith, Donna Dennis, Cindy Rankin, Carolyn Dennis, Cindy Kruger, Janice Joanne, Susan Kurshner, Linda Long, Pat Payne, Pat Knox, Judy Kruger and Mary Merkel. Other local girls who made the trip were: Robin Frish, Janice Petrie and Janice Pudge.

The nine slightly worn-out chaperones were: Mrs. Dorothy Fisher, guardian; Mr. Elmer Payne, associate guardian; Fred Fisher, Mrs. Margaret Payne, Mrs. Leda Dennis, Mrs. Charlotte Chapman, Mrs. Fern Jocobson, Mrs. Lucille Joanne and Mrs. Florence Kramer.

The Daly City girls especially enjoyed a tour of Disneyland, first class hotel accomodations, and several days on the beach in the southland sun.

THESE Bethel 198 Job's Daughters of Daly City earned national acclaim last month when they captured first place in precision drill competition in Long Beach at the supreme convention of the parent organization. They will defend their crown next year in Richmond, Virginia. Funds will be raised for the 1961 trip by Bethel 198 projects the next 12 months.

What You Get If You Buy A 'Mutual Fund'

(Editor's Note: This is fourth article in special series on "mutual funds," submitted as public information by a Daly City resident).

An investor in a Mutual Fund is offered many advantages when he buys its shares. We will consider some of them.

First, he buys professional management of his investment, that is, selection of securities, diversification, and continuous supervision. A word on diversification—this is a fundamental and most important principle of all investing. By not putting all its "eggs in one basket" a Mutual Fund offsets declines in one industry against gains in another.

Second, the Mutual Fund provides a fully liquid investment because it is obligated to redeem its shares at the current asset value. Thus, the investor in the Funds always has a ready market for his shares.

Third, the investor in Mutual Funds is relieved of burdensome clerical duties he assumes with the ownership of stocks and bonds of individual corporations.

Fourth, income and capital gains are not taxable to those regulated Mutual Funds that elect to pay that income in dividends. Shareholders must report such payments received by them, but the attendant income tax problems are simplified. The shareholder is advised what portion of the income is taxable as income and/or capital gains.

Fifth, shareholders are fully advised as to the value of securities they buy and own. Regular reports from the Mutual Fund show them the exact status, periodically through the year, of the number of shares they have accumulated. The net asset value of a Fund is computed at least once daily. Offering prices are calculated as of 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. In addition, most Mutual Fund prices are quoted in daily newspapers and financial publications.

32nd Annual Police Benefit Dance Aids Many Dependents; Daly City Girl Leads Event

Seventeen - year - old Lana Green of Daly City will reign over the 32nd annual ball of the Peninsula Police Officers Association, it was announced today.

The winsome queen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Green of 1009 South Mayfair avenue in Daly City, is a senior at Westmoor High School. She is studying for a career in modeling and acting, and is an avid sports fan.

A runner-up in the recent Miss Northern U. S. A. contest, the hazel-eyed, brown haired beauty is 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, and is pleasantly proportioned.

The ball, to be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday, October 1, at the Bay Meadows Clubhouse in San Mateo, should be the "best yet," according to Police Officer Donald K. Pearman of San Mateo, this year's Association president.

Overall arrangements for the dance are being directed by Officer James Allen, dance chairman, and Robert Hailer, ticket chairman.

Tickets for the ball are now in the mail to residents of the 15-city Peninsula area.

"Many survivors of Peninsula police officers are thankful for what the public has done in the past by supporting this fund. But each year the need grows as our population grows throughout the Peninsula," Pearman added.

Music for the event will be provided by Walt Tolleson's ten -piece dance band.

Fifteen Peninsula police departments combine each year to sponsor the event. They represent the cities of Atherton, Burlingame, Belmont, Colma, Daly City, Hillsborough, Menlo Park, Millbrae, Mountain View, Redwood City, San Bruno, San Carlos, San Mateo, South San Francisco, and Sunnyvale.

Founded in 1927, the Peninsula Police Officers Association was originally called the Peninsula Peace Officers Association. The late John J. Harper, Burlingame Police Chief was its first president.

In the following year, 1928, the Association decided to hold a ball as a means of raising funds for its Widows and Orphans Fund. The event proved successful and the Association has continued to sponsor a benefit ball annually since this time.

Several of the earliest balls were held in the old Pacific City Pavilion, an amusement center which then existed on the site of Coyote Point in San Mateo.

The annual fund-raising ball was decided upon when early Association members discovered that, owing to the hazardous nature of their vocation, insurance for their families proved too costly for the modest salaries they earned.

On many occasions these benefits have proved to be the only monetary assistance received by survivors of deceased officers. To date, the families of more than fifty deceased members have received benefits from this fund in their hour of need.

In addition to providing more adequately for the families of deceased officers, the Association also has been instrumental in raising the standards of police training in Northern California.

Officer Donald K. Pearman, 1001 Haddon drive, San Mateo, is president of the Association and Officer James Allen, 100 Powell street, San Mateo is the vice president. Both are members of the San Mateo Police Department.

Today, the Association has more than 300 members from Atherton, Burlingame, Belmont, Daly City, Hillsborough, Menlo Park, Millbrae, Mountain View, Redwood City, San Bruno, San Carlos, San Mateo, South San Francisco, and Sunnyvale.

Shirley Temple Show Is Prime 'Viewing' For Any Household

By Mona Baker

Mark the date September 18 on your calendar and gather the family around the television set to enjoy what promises to be one of the brightest and finest additions to the fall schedule—"The Shirley Temple Show"—which premieres over NBC, KRON-TV in color Sunday at 7 p.m. The first program in the series of family shows is "Land of Oz," followed by "Kim," "Winnie-the-Pooh" and "Tom and Huck."

Ever since we first saw Shirley as a little blonde charmer in her many delightful movies, we have been a devoted fan. When it was our privilege to meet her several years ago when she began her first television series, we were further captivated.

Petite, gracious, and completely charming, we can well understand why her television programs are always something really special. Behind her sparkling brown eyes, a fine character shines forth. Even though at the age of six she became the most fabulous child star in the history of motion pictures and attained success after success right into television, throughout the years she has remained a modest and lovely person. Happily married and completely engrossed in her home (in private life Mrs. Charles Black and mother of three youngsters) she took a vote of her family before she agreed to do the coming series. The verdict was that she could do the show if it didn't keep her away from home too long.

This is the time of season premieres and a program debuting on Sept. 27 over ABC, KGO-TV also promises to be one of the season's outstanding. Titled "Bell & Howell Closeup," the first program, "Cast the First Stone" will tackle the explosive subject of prejudice and discrimination as it affects minority groups in the northern part of the U.S. Other programs will document such subjects as charity collection business, pollution of American water sources, and Africa.

Returning to the CBS network over KPIX are several important premieres: On Sept. 18, "U. N. in Action;" Sept. 29, "CBS Reports," and on Sept. 30, "Du Pont Show of the Month" and "Eyewitness to History."

Over KQED an important addition to the fall schedule is "Command in Battle" with Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery reliving his World War II experiences in a series of televised memoirs (Wed. 4 p.m. and 8 p.m.). An important date, too, for Channel 9 is the annual membership meeting which will be held on Monday evening, Sept. 19, at KQED's studios. Election of directors will be held and annual reports given by officers at the meeting which will be televised from 8 to 8:30 p.m. over KQED.

'THE SHIRLEY TEMPLE SHOW'— A wide range of entertainment—starring Miss Temple as hostess and a frequent performer—will be the mark of the NBC-TV Network's new full-hour Sunday night colorcast series of family entertainment programs. The programs will include music and variety, originals, children's science-fiction, adaptations of comic strips and stories of enduring value and high adventure. "Winnie-the-Pooh," "The Village Blacksmith," "Little Men" and "Land of Oz" are among 11 properties already announced.

'World Peace' Meetings Set By Baha'is

World Peace—America's national purpose—will be the topic under discussion by some 1600 Baha'i communities in the nation this Sunday, September 18, designated as "World Peace Day" by the National Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'is of the United States.

The local event will be held at 548 Atlanta street at 8 p.m. and is open to the public. Mr. Alex Halcombe from San Francisco, treasurer of the S. F. Bahai community, will speak on "America's National Purpose."

Early Copy Urged On Church, PTA, And Social News

Church, PTA and social club publicity chairmen are reminded that final deadline for submitting news items for publication in the Westlake Times and The Record, 3317 San Jose avenue, Daly City, is noon Monday each week.

Copy submitted early — on Thursdays and Fridays — is most welcome and has the better chance of placement in the immediate issues than news items brought or mailed in the same week the papers go to press.

The stiff needles of the Engelmann spruce have a disagreeable odor when crushed.

Wesley Methodist Women Open Fall Schedule Tonight

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Wesley Methodist Church, Daly City, will hold their first fall meeting at the home of Mrs. N. H. Anderson, 72 Skyline drive, at 7:30 p.m. this Wednesday, September 14.

Mrs. James P. Howell, one of the past presidents of the California Nevada Annual Conference Woman's Society of Christian Service, who is currently chairman of the committee on Literature and Publications for the Woman's Division of Christian Service, will be the speaker of the evening and will present the history and the challenge of the organization on the national level and how this relates to the work of the local society.

Mrs. Kenneth E. Sale, president of the Society, will be in charge of the business meeting.

Mrs. Bob F. Lovelace, program chairman, will be in charge of the program.

Folk Dancing Classes Here For Beginners

Friday, September 16, from 7:45 to 10 p.m. is the date for the first evening of folk dance classes for beginners at Daly City War Memorial Community Center on Mission street.

If you have never danced before, this is for you! There will be get-acquainted mixer dances with nothing more difficult than a walking step. Several of the El Camino Reelers will be on hand to make you feel at home.

The El Camino Reelers will start their new season on Thursday, September 16, at 7:45 p.m. President Ann Jonas will start the ball rolling on the club's first party of the year to be held in October. Folk dancers who have had six months or more experience will be welcome any Thursday night.

Dues are 25 cents for either group, but club members may attend the beginners classes without charge. If more information is desired, phone PL 5-0065 evenings.

Westlake Alleys Fit As Fiddle For '60 Winter League Openers

Westlake Bowl reopens for bowling at 5 p.m. tonight (Wednesday) after a short closing for resurfacing the lanes in preparation for the winter leagues which swing into action next week.

John Swanson and his crew spent a busy weekend when two noon bowling sessions on Saturday and Sunday saw hundreds of spectators watch kegling luminaries Nobu Asami, Diana Phippin, Ora Mayer and national women's doubles champion Venice Pelton demonstrate the fine points of the game and then took instruction.

It was all part of "Learn to Bowl Week" which will climax in a dance at the Sheraton-Palace Saturday night at 9 o'clock.

All Westlakers are welcome at the $5 per couple dance, according to Johnny Swanson, president of the sponsoring S. F. Bowling Proprietor's Association. Tickets are at Westlake Bowl.

Fred Plowman, Stonestown Emporium, was bowler of the week at Westlake last week with a 257-200-161-618 series. Other over 600 series were posted by Don Johnson, Westlake Liquors, 231-605; Al Palmer, Avenue Lamp-Shades, 225-614; and Jack McDonnell, Lloyd's Tavern, 243-602.

Thirty-two fathers and their sons kicked off the Father and Son Sunday Morning League. As in the past, the league will award all prizes to the boys.

MAMMOTH FIVE-COUNTY RALLY MONDAY WITH MANY CELEBRITIES WILL MARK CRUSADE'S SENDOFF

Ed Sullivan, famous television personality and columnist, will be master of ceremonies for a mammoth five-county rally on September 19 at the new Crown Zellerbach plaza to open the United Bay Area Crusade's 1960 drive.

Other well-known entertainers also donating their services, mayors of 51 Bay Area communities, units of the Armed Forces and volunteer Crusade leaders will share the spotlight at the colorful 12:30 p.m. ceremonies. This will be a first such event at the plaza, bordered by Sansome, Market and Bush streets, San Francisco.

The Twelfth Naval District Band and the Fleet Marine Force, Pacific, Drum and Bugle Team will help entertain the large noon-time crowds expected to gather around the plaza.

Agencies serving Bay Area people and depending on the outcome of the drive are local youth services—Y's, Scouts, Boys' Clubs, Camp Fire and Catholic Youth Organization; Protestant, Catholic, Jewish and non-sectarian child care and family counselling services; visiting nurses, clinics, Red Cross, USO, Salvation Army, Travelers' Aid, United Seamen's Service, Urban League and others, including local units of national health agencies.

Marian Council Scholarship To DC's John Scalia

John will use the scholarship to attend St. Ignatius High School in San Francisco. An honor student at Our Lady of Perpetual Help, John was highly praised by the priest and sisters, and was a unanimous selection of the scholarship committee.

John's receipt of this year's scholarship gives him the distinction for being the first boy to receive the scholarship. Previous winners were all girls and each has maintained high academic standards at their respective schools.

The interest rate or rates stated in the bid must be in multiples of 1/8 or 1/20 of one per cent per annum, payable as aforesaid.

MATURITIES: Said bonds mature serially in consecutive numerical order from lower to higher (without option of prior redemption) as follows:

PRINCIPAL AMOUNT	MATURITY DATES
$20,000.00	NOVEMBER 1 1961 to 1970, both inclusive.
$30,000.00	1971 to 1985, both inclusive.

PAYMENT: Both principal and interest payable in lawful money of the United States, at the office of the County Treasurer of said County.

EXECUTION AND REGISTRATION: Coupon bonds will be issued by said Board of Supervisors on behalf of said District. Said bonds will be executed by the manual signature of at least one official authorized to execute the bonds. Said bonds are registrable only as to both principal and interest.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: Said bonds were authorized by more than two-thirds of the voters voting at an election held in said District on MARCH 18, 1958 and will be issued and sold for the purpose of raising money for authorized school purposes.

Such bids, together with bidder's check, must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Board of Supervisors of said County, and endorsed "Proposal for School Bonds of JEFFERSON School District, of San Mateo County."

BID CHECK: With each bid must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check for $5,000.00 drawn on a bank or trust company transacting business in the State of California, payable to the order of the County Treasurer, to secure said District from any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. In addition bidders are requested (but not required) to supply an estimate of the total net interest cost to the District on the basis of their respective bids, which shall be considered as informative only and not binding on either the bidder or the District. Checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned by the County Clerk by mail, upon the award of the bonds. No interest will be paid upon deposit made by the successful bidder.

There is no controversy or litigation pending or threatened concerning the validity of the above issue, the corporate existence of said District, or the title of the officers to their respective offices.

HISTORY OF AUTOMOBILE

In the history of the automobile, as in the history of just about anything else, certain years stand out as turning points, as periods of unusual development.

Researchers at the National Automobile Club have come up with their own special listing of these periods of development. Some of the items they have uncovered run as follows:

In 1900 manufacturers used mass production methods for the first time to run up a total production for the year of 4,192.

In 1903 the first automobile crossed the United States and took 61 days to do it.

BIG TURNOUT AT JEFF

INDIANS WILL FIELD TWO FIRST TEAMS

Although he has only one experienced senior back for starting offensive duty, Coach Joe McGrath is impressed with the enthusiasm of the 70 candidates for Jeff High's varsity football squad.

The Indians, who open with a practice game against Menlo-Atherton on Sept. 30, will go with platoons this season—a first string offensive unit and an entirely different first string defensive eleven.

While the Tribe offense is light and mostly inexperienced, the defense has weight and deep men with speed.

McGrath's tentative offensive line unit after four days of practice: Ends—Rich Reitz, 170, and James Belvin, 140, juniors up from the jayvees; tackles—Soph Al Lonstrom, 150, and junior John Souza, 155; guards —senior Daryl Cohn, 175, and junior Craig Garcia, 155; and veteran Joe Bollentini, 180, at center. Bollentini saw heavy duty on defense last season.

Junior Bob Miller, 180-pounder up from the jayvees, is at quarterback, with frosh graduate Dan Hermosillo, 150, behind him. The halfbacks are junior Sam Ennon, 145, up from the JV's, and transfer-from-Iowa Dennis Namanney, 175, also a junior. Bob Kasper, 160, a junior, is the leading fullback. He's also a JV product.

On defense:

Wrestler Steve Albert, 175-pound senior (no experience), and junior John Mareno, 165, are at ends. Senior Bob Guerrero, 175, and junior Al Cascicideo, 165, figure to be the inside linebackers. Brisbaner James Parker, another wrestler and 175, and Armando Cadena, soph 160-pounder, are at guards. Defensive center will be occupied by 215-pounder Gino Bertolini, offensive center for McGrath last year and a tough customer.

Twins Tony and Stan Montalbo, 155-pound seniors from the JV's, are likely wingbacks. Senior Sal Blas, Jeff's best runner, and Duane Baswell, 155, and a former JV, will be the safetymen.

McGrath said other boys worth watching are soph fullback Ron Goo, 30's basketballer George Claus, senior trying out at halfback: and soph Jack Durham, also a halfback hustler.

BOWLING

Registrations This Saturday For Jr. Loops

By Bob Sexton

September 17 is the big day! This is the date the junior bowlers flock to Westlake Bowl to register for winter leagues. The Bantams (12 and under) will register at 9:30 a.m. while the juniors (13 to 15) register at 11:15 a.m. and the seniors, 16 to 18, at noon.

It will help a great deal if the bowlers can place themselves on a team before signup time. By doing this the youngster is bowling with friends and even perhaps neighbors.

The first day of league bowling will be held the following week, September 24. Bowling times will be 9 a.m. for Bantams and 9:30 for Juniors and Seniors.

Immediately following registration the bowlers will be shown the American Junior Bowling Congress display in the lobby of the Bowl. This is a collection of awards, prizes and trophies that are given to members of the A.J.B.C. who bowl outstanding scores. Also in the display are the honor roll plaques and championship trophies the Westlake juniors have won. One of the Bowl's top junior bowlers, Carl Steigerwald, will be on hand to answer any questions the new bowlers may have concerning the Westlake Bowl's Junior Program and display.

SPORTS

Tanforan Opens This Week In San Bruno After Year And Half

Thoroughbred racing returns to the area this week when Tanforan opens its 42 day racing season under new management.

The Tanfo meeting will continue through November 1 with racing on a six day a week basis.

Since the last meeting at the San Bruno course in the spring of 1959, Tanforan was sold by Eugene Mori to a group, largely composed of San Franciscans.

Of the 2000 applicants for stall space, 1300 have been approved. Leading performers are from Del Mar, Longacres in Seattle, Centennial Park in Denver and the fair circuit.

Nine stakes events have been scheduled. Top attractions are the $20,000 added Tanforan Handicap, the Man O'War Handicap and the San Bruno Stakes both endowed with prizes of $15,000.

Racing Secretary George Zarelli, serving his first season at Tanforan, plans a series of strong and lucrative overnight features, with the purses ranging up to $5000.

Eight races will be presented each day, except Wednesdays and Saturdays when nine will be carded.

Post time for the first event will remain at 1 p.m. every day throughout the season, regardless of whether it is an eight or nine race day.

New officers and directors of the track include David Moore, Joseph Blumenfeld, Edward Rosston, William Gilmore, Melville Marx and Louis Petri, all residents of the bay area, Henry Lewis III of New York, Samuel Briskin of Hollywood and Frederick Brisson of New York and Hollywood. B. W. Railey of Hillsborough is president and general manager.

PROUTY AND DAKE TOP CARRIERS

Westmoor Footballers Will Rely On Speed, Funai And Air Game

Coach Pete Matisi, the old USF fullback, is starting his fourth season as Westmoor varsity football boss, and, as usual, he's optimistic because it's a game that could be decided on the bounce of the pigskin.

The Green and White Rams from Daly City's western hilltop this campaign could come up with Westmoor's "best" effort in Peninsula League competition. Matisi's clubs have won only four games (practice and league) the past three seasons. Two of these triumphs have been over town rival Jefferson, so the Rams at least are one game ahead in this traditional series.

In a capsule, Matisi and assistant Bill Carr, who learned the ropes at San Francisco State as a tackle, have 13 lettermen back and about 27 other players—ranging in size from halfback mites Walt Prouty and Tom Dake to tackle Tom Frydenlund (265 lbs.) end and soph guard Mike Pignataro (268 on the scales).

If Matisi's 13 lettermen can hold the fort full-time (and injuries are at a minimum), Westmoor could climb out of the depths and give the front-enders (Capuchino, San Mateo, Mills and Hillsdale) a run for the finish line.

"We have lots of speedy though small backs, two good catching ends, and pretty fair interior defense," Matisi previewed. "We will be going a lot through the air because our targets are both dependable and fast."

The Rams will be without three backfielders and three tough linemen who shouldered the load in '59 when the only win came over Jefferson in nine games all told.

Matisi needed tackle Andy Saranchock, a tall kid who held his own against the best. Andy transferred to Pennsylvania. Also gone is tackle Bob Porras, graduated Pacifican, and guard standout Larry Siegel, a junior, isn't certain he'll play this campaign.

Westmoor's backfield losses with diplomas were biggies—Quarterback Jim Heick, bruising halfback Tom McHugh and fullback Webb Parker.

To fill the QB gap, Matisi has junior Steve Funai, who ran the club last year in the final five scraps and "a lad who could be the best passer in the league," Matisi points out.

Behind Funai will be Mike DeBernardi, sophomore son of the Daly City councilman. Funai is 5-10 and 145 pounds, and DeBernardi 5-8 and 135. They have no beef to spare and will have to step quickly.

Prouty and Dake, welterweights at best, have to be the Ram breadwinners at the starting halfback jobs. The 5-9 seniors have breakaway speed and fortitude when the going gets rough. Prouty was Westmoor's biggest yard-getter last year and Dake the club's swiftest packer.

Couple of boys who may help plenty are soph back Spencer Bader and soph Tony Barich, both up from the frosh eleven. Barich may be worked at the "tight end" in Matisi's offense.

The Ram line will be centered by letterman Daryl Ober, 195, seconded by newcomer Richard Vullo, 160. Both are juniors.

Senior vets Jim Wade and Roger Austin are the guards. The offensive tackle slots are in the hands of experienced Jim Wade, 190, and bulky former reserve Frydenlund.

Ron Petrocchi, 5-10 and 160, and senior Chris Hanson, 155, are light but all-the-way ends. Both loom stronger than a year ago.

On defensive, Matisi is counting in particular on Joe Fuentes and Greg Moore as linebackers.

Westmoor kicks of fthe season against Woodside in a practice battle here September 30. A week later, the Rams travel to meet Menlo-Atherton. The league play starts October 14 with Hillsdale at Westmoor.

Vacationing Ex-Mayor's Story Takes Cracker-Barrel Prize

Among the slew of vacation stories making the rounds, the prize one seems to be former mayor Mel Battye's.

The night before they were due to leave, Mrs. Mel was knocked down in the street. Her attacker was a purse-snatching parolee from Hillcrest Juvenile Detention home. Police caught the 16-year-old, but Mrs. Battye left on her vacation with an aching head and a number of bruises.

Things picked up for the Battyes though, after their jet arrived in Chicago. To hear Mel tell it, the finest steak from the finest steer raised this year in the U. S. was served him by the nation's top chef in one of that city's posh joints.

After a day of sight-seeing, they flew to Flint, Michigan, where he picked up a Buick he had bought here in Daly City—right off the production line.

He carried his license plates in his suitcase.

New York was the next stop. Mel headed out across the Illinois Turnpike, the Ohio Turnpike, Pennsylvania Turnpike and New Jersey Turnpike. It sounds fast, but it wasn't. There was the little matter of breaking in the car. Fifty miles an hour maximum and down to twenty-five mph every half hour.

"To top it off, I had the bad luck to start looking for a motel room about 11 p.m.," he says. "Well, you know, we drove through the night—and the next day: it took 24 hours to get to New York." He blames the hours lost going east for throwing him off-stride.

But being a city man, New York and our former mayor got along well. The next three days were filled with night-clubbing (Latin Quarter, Village Barn, Leoni's), tours (Harlem, Radio City, Bronx) and shopping (Park avenue and Fifth Avenue.)

Then it was down the coast to Florida.

"It was the off-season. We got the most beautiful motel rooms I ever saw for peanuts. The places were minor palaces. Savannah smelled of pulp mills, but Ft. Lauderdale was all I'd ever ask. We were going to get a boat for the Bahamas, but the boat was broken down.

"Miami seemed a little honkey tonk, and Miami Beach was opulent." The Battyes took the same route up the west of Florida that Hurricane Donna followed, then went to Tallahasse and across the Gulf States to New Orleans.

They apparently pulled out all stops there. Bourbon street, the French Quarter, Antoine's, Canal street—all traded good times for California gold. After several days of tours (slave blocks, provincial grill works, cemeteries "they don't bury the dead underground there because the town's built on swamps") they headed west.

Prairies, deserts, mountains passed under the new car's wheels as they crossed Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, heading up to Nevada and—to cap the trip—Las Vegas.

There, Mel intimates, he contributed heavily to the Mafia's welfare fund at the various wheels and tables.

"Of the whole trip, the South was the surprising thing. I'd always heard of it as poor and sort of grimy. But all was green and clean. There are as many opinions on segregation there as there are people. I was most impressed by the roads back east. Unlike ours, they are almost like driving through parkways. I will say our oranges are better, though."

Pre-school Class Arranged Here By Local YWCA

If you have a child too young for kindergarten this year and broken hearted, the new Tiny Tots Class sponsored by the YWCA of northern San Mateo County should fit him to a "T."

The program will start September 28 from 10 a.m. to noon. Children from 2 to 6 years will be eligible to enroll. Mrs. Ruth Galindo, formerly of the Park and Recreation Department, Daly City, will handle the teaching. The Westlake clubhouse will be their school room for games, songs, crafts, and a well rounded creative program. Your little ones can go to school just like big brother or sister now and for $4 for six weeks.

The little ones can also enjoy basic dance, ages 3 to 6, from 10 to 11 a.m. beginning September 27. An intermediate class is available for the same age group from 11 a.m. to noon on the same day. The fee for the dancing classes is $5 for 6 weeks, and the Y is happy to have Anne Marie Garvin back again for the instruction.

On Fridays beginning September 30th the same tiny tots from 2 to 6 years can learn to swim. The beginners class is at 10 and 10:45 a.m. and the intermediates at 11 a.m. The class will meet at the Larsen Pool, 19th avenue and Wawona street in San Francisco. The fee is $5 for six weeks plus pool fee. A medical report is required on a YWCA form. For additional information about these classes, phone the Y: PL 6-7370.

Additionally, the Y will hold a coffee hour September 20, 10 a.m. to noon, at Westlake Clubhouse for anyone interested in the classes. A nursery will be provided.

Chairman Mrs. Eleanor Raymond and Co-chairman Miriam Burns are assisted by a work committee: Eleanora Colin, Doris Fox, Dee Sklavos, Jesse West, E. Johnston, Ann Johnson, Mrs. Stites, Ernie Hummel and Director Elaine Wolf.

SERIES STARTS FRIDAY

Mock Civil Defense Exercises Will Alert Public On 'Survival'

Intensive Civil Defense field exercises that will involve state, county and city governments throughout California will be held in a four-part series beginning this Friday and Saturday.

Allan K. Jonas, director of the California Disaster Office, said that the exercises are designed to test the capability of government to cope with the initial phases of a nuclear attack. They will begin in 24 central California counties comprising CD Regions 4 and 5 of the state's six CD regions. Units of the California Army National Guard will participate by reporting incidents and damages after the theoretical enemy attack, Jonas announced.

"We will be testing primarily three Civil Defense services. They are the radiological defense service to combat fallout, the operational information service to screen in-coming reports and determine the best course of action, and the public information service to keep the public informed.

"The radiological fallout patterns and the incidents for the test will be created through the use of pre-positioned sealed envelopes that will be opened at a fixed time and place.

"Once the information contained in the envelopes reaches the various governmental levels, simulated Conelrad scripts will be prepared to test the ability of the public information service to get information to the public quickly and accurately," Jonas said.

On September 30 and October 1, there will be similar preliminary exercises in the northern coastal counties, including San Francisco, and the far northern section of the state, making up CD Regions 2 and 3.

The southern coastal counties, including Los Angeles, making up CD Region 1, and counties in the extreme southern end of the state comprising CD Region 6, will hold their exercises on October 7 and 8.

A full-scale statewide test of the same three CD services will be held on December 7 and 8. During the first three preliminary tests information will be funneled up to the state's six regional offices, and other CDO officials will act as observers there. In the December test, the California Disaster Office, near Sacramento, will be in operation.

Jonas emphasized the importance of the test exercises to the public by saying, "The various governments throughout the state are working hard to perfect a plan that could save the lives of millions of Californians in the event of nuclear attack.

"It is essential, however, that everyone be made aware of the need for individual SURVIVAL PLANNING. The results of these mock attacks should demonstrate to the people of California the critical need to understand the problems involved and to take adequate measures to protect their own lives.

"The job of the California Disaster Office is to plan, coordinate, and assist in saving lives and property. Naturally, in disaster preparedness we must plan for the worst (nuclear attack), and we can then adopt to any lesser emergency —such as flood, earthquake, or forest fire. The problems in any disaster are similar in nature," he pointed out. "And we must be able to meet all of them."

The test exercises on September 30 and October 1 will include 24 counties. In CD Region 2 are Alameda, Contra Costa, Lake, Marin, Mendocino, Monterey, Napa, San Benito, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Solano and Sonoma counties.

CD Region 3 is made up of Butte, Del Norte, Glenn, Humboldt, Lassen, Modoc, Plumas, Shasta, Siskiyou, Tehama and Trinity counties.

Y-INDIAN GUIDES PROGRAM GIVES BOYS BETTER CHANCE TO APPRECIATE THEIR DADS

How does a boy become a man? Social scientists, educators, and throughtful parents are increasingly aware that the growth of boy-into-man involves subtleties more complex than the deepening of Sonny's voice and a surreptitious shave with Dad's razor.

A boy needs close association with his father and with other adult males years before the apearance of the first whisker, if he is to adjust well to the male role which society will expect him to assume after he has acquired the physical attributes of manhood.

Students of American family say that it is harder for a boy to learn how to be a man today than it used to be, and that there are several reasons why:

For one thing, most boys don't see much of their Dads. More fathers work away from home, at a further distance from home, and at occupations which are unintelligible to a six-year-old than did fathers a century ago.

If boys see less of their fathers, they see more of their mothers. Today's mother is chief companion, entertainer, nose-wiper and disciplinarian—in short, chief parent — long after her sons have emerged from babyhood. Boys remain under Mother's influence beyond the age when they should acquire more than a nodding acquaintance with the masculine world.

American boys a century ago not only saw more of their fathers and were more closely under their influence. They had male school-teachers. Today most teachers are women. At home and at school, a boy's chief adult image is female. Yet he is expected to grow up in the knowledge that he is male, and one day must take his place in the world as a man.

Most fathers are aware of this problem. They fell frustrated because it is not a problem for which they as individuals are responsible. They are anxious to prove that fathers still count as more than busy bread-winners.

So Dad yanks Sonny off to the mountains for a week of camping, man to man. He thinks it's time the kid got acquainted with his old man, and he's right. The only trouble is, you can't cram a year's companionship into a week's vacation. The nights are cold, the mosquitoes are biting better than the fish, and Sonny prefers Mother's way with a Band-aid. Two disillusioned "buddies" drive home.

Tragi-comedies like this one take place when a busy man makes a once-in-awhile effort to be a father to his boy. What Dad needs to realize is that companionship spread over the days and weeks adds up to more love and understanding than can be crammed into a tense vacation trip. It is this regular and easy association with his father which is essential to a boy's comprehension of what it means to think and feel like a man.

Fortunately, there are ways in which today's busy fathers can spend more time with their sons, and have a lot of fun in the bargain. The Y-Indian Guides is an organization specifically designed to answer such a need. This new organization, which will be organizing more tribes in San Francisco this fall, fosters companionship between fathers and sons in an all-male setting.

Y-Indian Guide activities are carried on in tribes which meet weekly, so that Dad has a regularly scheduled time to be with his son. Indian folklore and terminology are featured in meetings, and provide the inspiration for work and play projects which appeal to the imagination of the 6 to 9 year-old boy, and at the same time provide absorbing recreation for Dad.

When a father joins his boy in Indian crafts, an activity in which neither is highly skilled, father's normal superiority melts away, and the setting for a new father-son relationship is born. In such a setting, a boy often sees Dad in a new light, and vice versa.

Y-Indian Guides is coming up fast among youth organizations across the country, proof that its soundly-conceived program has much to offer today's father and son.

Vets Reminded Of Free Help

Veterans and their families were reminded this week by San Mateo County Veterans' Service, of the assistance available to them in applying for federal or state benefits.

"We still find that veterans are not aware of the counseling and guidance offered them by our office," service officer Floyd Granger said. "Whatever your problem, if you are a veteran or the dependent or survivor of a veteran, let us help you with that problem or make the proper referral."

The Veterans' Service Office, located at the Redwood City Courthouse, is supported by state and county appropriations and is responsible to the Board of Supervisors.

Veterens benefits include GI or Cal-Vet loans, educational assistance, pension, income reports, compensation, hospitalization, disability income, conversion of insurance, changes of insurance beneficiaries, change of address, recording of discharges, civil service preference rights and location oflost records or documents. The Veterans' Service Office is open Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The telephone number is EMerson 9-1441, Ext. 221.

Driving Over 60 mph Usually Isn't Healthy

Ever drive your car off a 10-story building?

The physical effect is about the same as if you hit a solid obstruction on the highway at 60 miles an hour—and the odds against climbing out unharmed are about the same, reports the San Francisco Chapter, National Safety Council.

At speeds of 60 or more the chances of being killed are about eight times greater than at 20 miles an hour.

"The old and often heard statement, 'I may drive fast but I'm a careful driver,' is a bit of bravado. Any driver's skill is nullified by the physical factors involved when his car is travelling at a dangerous speed," the Council says.

If you have a speed habit you want to break, follow the Council's suggestions: Travel the same speed as the prevailing traffic. Avoid going too slow or fast. Avoid cutting in and out of traffic. On curves be sure to have your speed down. A driver who is forced to apply his brakes after entering the curve is dangerously over his speed limit. A car that skids is out of control, so keep your car under control at all times.

"We have a slogan," the Council says. "Speed won't shorten the road, but it might shorten your life."
